CIA Seeks Exclusion From Privacy Bill

CPYRGHT

✓ The Central Intelligence Agency's bid to be excluded from a pending bill protecting the privacy and rights of federal employees raised some thing of Senate rumpus yesterday. The bill would curtail the Agency's bid to be excluded from a pending bill protecting the privacy and rights of federal employees raised some thing of Senate rumpus yesterday.

✓ Sen. Sam J. Ervin (D-N.C.), the bill's author, said the plea of the CIA and National Security Agency for complete exemption suggests "they want the unmitigated right to kick Federal employees around, deny them respect for individual privacy and the views in closed session. Ervin said CIA had ducked every American regardless of the mission of his agency." Among other things, the
